Haliburton Happenings

The Halloween Party in the Town Hall was an occasion for all present to "cut loose" and laugh and be laughed at. Many of the events were well contested and of course the winners received appropriate prizes. A palmer and fortune teller did a flourishing trade without interference by the police.

Thanksgiving Day was a quiet holiday. Very few visited or left town for the occasion. Special services in the churches were well attended. The weather was more appropriate to Christmas than Thanksgiving, as there was zero temperature and the ground well-covered with snow.

Rev. W. M. Morris, Sec'y-Treas. of the Ontario Trustees and Ratepayers Association, visited the village on Friday last and laid the ground-work of a County Association at a meeting in the Town Hall. Though well advertised throughout the County as a general convention of all interested in Public School Improvements, the meeting was disappointingly small even in the evening owing principally to bad weather and worse roads. However, Mr. Norris gave a splendid address on "The School and Politics" (which, by the way, was far from interfering in any way with the present issue,) and those present decided to elect the nucleus of an association intended to promote interest in all matters connected with school affairs. Mr. H. B. Peir, Haliburton, Mr. W. E. Arnberg, Guilford, and Mrs. A. G. Barnes, Wilberforce, were selected as Pres., Vice-Pres. and Sec'y respectively. Another man from the parent association will come later to address local meetings throughout the county and where requested to organize local branches.

Miss Spencer, of Toronto, gave an entertainment under the auspices of the Union Church on Monday night, which was greatly appreciated by the few present. Her program was a demonstration in elocution and quite a novelty compared with the medley usually presented by imported entertainers.

Deer season opened on Saturday last and like Toronto Exhibition is "bigger and better" than ever. More outside sportsmen are on the job than in many years and few of the many scores of camps roundabout are vacant. Mr. Windsor, assisted by Ira Toole, of Lindsay, has been in the rounds of these camps in the name of the Game Department and the Game Licenses has freshened considerably.

From present appearances the telephone is to be a convenience of the future. Before the commissioners were scarcely appointed, some of those, previously ardent supporters, were out to delay proceedings and so far have gained their points.

One of the oldest houses in Haliburton County was pulled down last week, viz., the former residence of Mrs. R. T. Walling and family of Dysart. The house dates back to about sixty years ago and was a log house built of hewn pine and pit sawn lumber. The house has been occupied by the Walling family for fifty years.

Rev. Parker Designated to United Church

A very inspiring service was held in the United Church at Minden on Friday, Nov. 4th, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when Rev. Wm. Parker was designated to the pastoral charge of the Minden field as an ordained Missionary. Rev. W. A. Beecroft, B. D., of Fenelon Falls, and Home Mission Convener of the Lindsay Presbytery, was Moderator of the service. The opening exercises consisted of two hymns, Scripture lesson from the 26th chapter of Proverbs, and prayer by the Moderator.

Mr. Beecroft preached a very helpful and instructive sermon, using as a text, Prov. 26:13, "The slothful man saith, There is a lion in the way, a lion in the streets." Various kinds of lions with which to the christian has to contend, were mentioned and dwelt upon by the speaker.

Following this very helpful message, Rev. Mr. Parker, our new pastor, was called to the platform, and after giving answers to several questions, was designated to the pastoral charge of the field, and given the right hand of fellowship by the Moderator and the other members of the Presbytery present.

Rev. W. Cannon, of Cobocok, gave the charge to the pastor, and based his message on the charge of St. Paul to Timothy, as given in 1 Timothy 3.

Rev. J. D. Byrnes, B. D., Home Mission Supt. for the Synod of Toronto and Kingston, addressed the congregation, and in place of giving what is usually termed the charge to the people, gave a very helpful and descriptive resume of co-operation now working so well in Ontario, particularly between the Methodist and Presbyterian churches.

The service was brought to a close with the singing of a hymn by the congregation, and the Benediction, which was pronounced by the Moderator.

The United States "Unknown Warrior" arrived at Chesapeake Bay this week.

STERN REMINDERS OF RHEUMATISM

The Trouble Must be Treated
Through the Blood.

Every rheumatic sufferer should realize that rheumatism is rooted in the blood and that to get rid of it it must be treated through the blood. The old belief that rheumatism was caused by cold, damp weather, is now exploded. Such weather conditions may start the pains, but it is not the cause. Liniments and outward applications may give temporary relief, but that is all they can do because they do not reach its sources in the blood. The sufferer from rheumatism who experiments with outward applications is only wasting time and money in depending upon such treatment; the trouble still remains, and it is all the time becoming more firmly rooted. Treat this disease through the blood and you will soon find relief. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on impure weak blood; they purify and strengthen it, and so act on the cause of the rheumatism. Mr. P. J. MacPherson, R.R. No. 5, Cardigan, P.E.I., says: "About three years ago I was attacked with rheumatism. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and soon the trouble disappeared and I am in better health than before. I also know of an old lady acquaintance who was badly crippled with rheumatism in her arms and legs, and who suffered very much. She, too, took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and is now able to do her housework. I tell you this in the hope it may be of benefit to some other sufferer."

You can procure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or they will be sent you by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Where You Are Safest.

The average person suffers a disabling accident once in seven years. It may be only a smashed thumb or a sprained ankle, but it puts the sufferer temporarily out of business.

If one would avoid disabling accidents, the safest place is indoors, in bed, in the cellar.

Next to that the safest place is a Pullman car on a railroad train. So say the accident insurance companies. A passenger in an ordinary railroad car is much safer than at home, because he is sitting still and few things can happen to him. If he is in a Pullman, and there is a collision, other cars may be smashed, but his own vehicle, being of steel and enormously heavy, will likely escape serious injury.

For all that is said about the perils of the sea you are just about ten times as safe on a ship as on land. One man in every 2,200 is fatally hurt by an accident on land; on the ocean only one person in 22,000 suffers accidental death.

Looks Like It.

Jimmie—"Father, what is an excavation?"

Father—"An excavation is a place from which dirt has been taken."

"Is baby's face one, father?"

HEALTH EDUCATION

BY DR. J. J. MIDDLETON
Provincial Board of Health, Ontario

Dr. Middleton will be glad to answer questions on Public Health matters through this column. Address him at Spadina House, Spadina Crescent, Toronto.

In every effort directed to improvement of the public health and well-being, the question of out-door exercise must be taken into account. No matter what preventive measures are taken against disease, the physical condition of the individual, whether adult or child, is not kept in perfect condition if healthy exercise out-of-doors is not indulged in.

The question of what constitutes healthy exercise is important. There are a large number of people who seem to think that touring around in a motor car provides sufficient exercise for the average person. This is a mistake, but motoring has certain advantages. It detracts the mind from domestic cares and worries, and takes people out of doors in the fresh air.

Real physical exercise—the kind that promotes sleep at nights and stimulates the appetite, is lacking in the pleasure that a motor car offers, except in the case of the driver who may get enough exercise if something mechanical goes wrong.

Walking is one of the most beneficial exercise that can be had and yet too little of it is practiced. We hear far too much in the daily papers about

FOREIGN COLONIES IN THE DOMINION

SCANDINAVIANS MAKE THE BEST CITIZENS.

Most of the Europeans Are Fine Farmers While Italians and Jews Prefer City Life.

In view of the inflow of foreign immigrants to Canada from Europe during the fiscal year 1920-1921, which amounted to 26,153, it is of interest to note the origin and destination of those who have already settled in this country during the past decade. These new colonists are mainly agriculturists, and on landing in Canada proceed to various districts throughout the country where their friends or relatives are already located.

The number of European foreign-born in Canada in 1911 was given by the Canada Year Book as 404,941, or 5.62 per cent. of the entire population. It is interesting to know that at the time this census was taken the number of foreign-born Europeans in Canada exceeded the number of American born in this country by 101,261, or 1.41 per cent. of the entire population of Canada. Since these figures were compiled, European immigration, owing to the war, has dwindled to practically nothing, and as a result the number of Americans who emigrated to this country since then have so swelled the ranks of their compatriots already here, that the present census will undoubtedly show a much larger number of American than European foreign-born in Canada.

At the last Dominion census, 393,320 persons gave their nationality as Germans; 129,103 Austro-Hungarians; 107,535 Scandinavians; 75,861 Jewish; 54,986 Dutch; Italian, 45,411; Austrian, 42,535; Russian, 43,142; Polish, 33,365; Galician, 35,158; Ruthenian, 29,845; while smaller numbers came from the countries bordering on the Mediterranean sea.

Many Foreign Western Colonies.

Taking them in order of importance we find that the Germans, as a rule, gravitate towards Northern Ontario and the Western provinces. They keep to themselves very much and have established many fine and well-to-do communities. In Saskatchewan and Manitoba many prosperous farming centres have been established by Germans. Around the towns of Morden, Winkler, Glenora, in Manitoba, and Kaiser and Vonda, in Saskatchewan, large colonies of German farmers have been founded. Austrians and Hungarians, whose mode of living and language are very similar, frequently settle near German communities. A large number of both Austrians and Germans work in the coal mines of Southern Alberta and the gold and silver mines of British Columbia.

The Scandinavians, who are probably the best foreign immigrant we get from Europe, have founded many thriving community centres throughout the Prairie Provinces, more particularly in central Alberta. They are a strong, industrious, and clean-living people. They cultivate their farms intensely and go in very extensively for mixed farming. Their schools are the most modern and up-to-date of their kind in the province, and often —and the worst is yet to come after leaving these schools many of the students attend the provincial university, where a diversity of courses is offered them.

The Jews are inclined more to city life than farming and very few if any go on the land, although there are one or two colonies in the province of Saskatchewan and Manitoba which have been in existence for several years and from recent reports are very successful.

Southern Europeans.

The Ruthenians, Galicians, Poles, Doukhobors, Russians and Dutch are great agricultural people, and it is not surprising to find large numbers of them on farms in the Western Provinces of Canada. Like the Germans and Scandinavians, they form into little colonies having their own church, language and schools. Though not as progressive as the Scandinavians they make splendid citizens and as farmers cannot be excelled. In Winnipeg, Manitoba, these people publish papers written in their native language.

The Italian, like the Jew, tends towards city life, but quite frequently they operate small farms outside large cities, on which they grow vegetables and other garden truck to be retailed in the city. They have a successful agricultural colony at Venice, Lake La Biche, Northern Alberta.

During the war many of these foreign-born immigrants from Europe enlisted in the Canadian Army, while a large number of them were reservists in the Allied armies. Those at home bought Victory Bonds, and subscribed to the Red Cross as well as to various other war funds. They also planted an increased acreage in grain crops in order to relieve the food situation and in many other ways displayed their good citizenship. Many of the pre-war immigrants, such as Germans, Austrians, Hungarians and Turks, are now barred from Canada, and it will be some years before the ban is lifted.

British Leaders Appeal for League.

A public letter signed by Premier Lloyd George, Herbert Asquith, Lord Grey, Lord Robert Cecil, John Robert Clynes and Sir Hubert Gough, representing nearly all political factions, makes a stirring appeal for funds to carry on the work of the League of Nations Union, says a London despatch. It says that without considerable donations the league must curtail many of its activities. The appeal is for a million pounds, or "just the cost for maintaining one capital ship for a year."

The letter goes on to say that "if the world will but rally to the League of Nations a substantial reduction in armaments will be possible. We shall save the million pounds many times over in taxation, to say nothing of what we will gain in security and happiness."

The Value of Being

Most plants that grow in a cold climate must be chilled before they can bear fruit. A tree, however, does not become dormant merely because cold weather has arrived, but rather because the time has come for it to rest.

Nature has the next generation ever in mind. So every tree or shrub that becomes dormant has stored away an ample supply of food. The food is usually in the form of starch, which must be converted into sugar before it is fit for the plant to use. To convert the starch into sugar organic substances known as enzymes, which are found in various cells of the plant, must come into contact with it. Chilling or freezing breaks down the walls of the food cells and allows the enzymes to reach the starch and turn it into sugar.

You can see how necessary the cold is to a plant if you will make the following experiments. Take a fruit tree or a shrub and put it into the greenhouse as soon as the sap has ceased to run, but before really cold weather has come. Then cut a hole in the wall of the greenhouse, thrust a part of the plant through the opening, and leave it exposed to the weather. The part that has been subjected to the cold will blossom profusely in the spring and bear fruit in its season; the part that has been kept in the warm greenhouse will do neither.

So when we see the trees on the lawn braving the zero weather we need not pity them, for they are passing through an experience that is necessary if they are to bear fruit next year.

What is true of trees is true also of human beings. If we study the lives of great men, we shall find that they pass through periods of discouragement, and that those periods are what make their lives fruitful. We can find comfort in the thought that, just as the trees and the shrubs must be chilled if they are to flourish and bear fruit, so the sorrows, disappointments and hardships that come to us make our lives bloom with moral beauty and become fruitful in worthy achievement.

If the Cap Fits.

"I never go to church," said the millionaire. "I guess you've noticed that, bishop?"

"Yes, I have noticed it," replied the bishop, gravely.

"I suppose you wonder why I never go to church, don't you?" the millionaire pursued. "Well, I'll tell you why. There are so many hypocrites there."

"Oh, don't let that keep you away," retorted the bishop, with a smile.

"There is always room for one more."

Surnames and Their Origin

FREEMONT

Racial Origin—Norman-French. Source—A locality.

There are two versions as to what the real meaning of the name of Freemont is, but virtually all authorities are agreed that the family name, as such, is but an English development of the place name of Framont in France.

Whether this place was named "franc-mont" ("free-mount") is a matter that is open to debate with the chances somewhat in favor of the former argument as fitting in better with what is known of the motives and habits of early European settlements in the development of their place names.

In any event the name was brought to England in the Norman invasion and settlement in that country.

This period of English history was responsible for the development of many family names. The Norman Army was gathered together from all parts of Northern France, with the result that in such a gathering of individuals from different communities surnames referring to the place from which the individual had come naturally proved the easiest method of distinguishing him from other men of the same given name.

His Hearing Restored.

The invisible ear drum invented by A. O. Leonard, which is a miniature megaphone, fitting inside the ear entirely out of sight, is restoring the hearing of hundreds of people in New York City. Mr. Leonard invented this drum to relieve himself of deafness and head noises, and it does this so successfully that no one could tell he is a deaf man. It is effective when deafness is caused by catarrh or by perforated, or wholly destroyed natural drums. A request for information to A. O. Leonard, Suite 437, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York City, will be given a prompt reply. advt.

Force of Habit.

"I wish," said the editor's wife, that you were not so absent-minded."

His Ideas.

Youth—"I sent you some suggestions telling you how to make your paper more interesting. Have you carried out any of my ideas?"

Editor—"Did you meet the office-boy with the waste paper basket, as you came upstairs?"

Youth—"Yes, I did."

Editor—"Well, he was carrying out your ideas."

Mother! Clean Child's Bowels With California Fig Syrup

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works. The constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Substitute for Tea.

The active principle of tea is "theine."

That of coffee is caffeine. But caffeine and theine are exactly the same thing.

This agreeably stimulating alkaloid is found in other plants one of which grow wild and plentifully in the South Atlantic States, where it is called "yaupon," or sometimes "Christmas-berry tree."

The Indians brewed a beverage from the leaves of the yaupon long before the first white man landed on this continent; and during the Civil War it was used as a substitute for tea by people in the South.

The U.S. Government Plant Bureau is experimenting with it, in the belief that the leaves, when properly cured after the manner of tea, will furnish a palatable cup at a much less cost.

Mrs. Rose M. Brown Gained 20 Pounds In Four Weeks Time

Declares It's Simply Astonishing To See The Wonderful Benefits She Has Derived From Tanlac—Says Terrible Headaches Have Disappeared.

MRS. ROSE M. BROWN

"It sounds unapproachable, but I have actually gained 20 pounds in less than a month's time by taking Tanlac, and the wonderful benefit I have derived from the use of this medicine is simply astonishing," said Mrs. Rose M. Brown, 111 Third Street, Manchester, N.H.

"Why, I am so happy to be relieved of my troubles, I can really never praise this medicine enough. Up to the time I began taking Tanlac, I suffered for something over two years with a very bad form of stomach trouble."

"My appetite was so poor I could scarcely eat a thing. My stomach would be so badly bloated with gas sometimes I was almost afraid to go to bed for fear I would actually smother. I felt tired and worn out most of the time and became terribly discouraged over my condition. I often had such violent headaches I was unable to be out of bed for two or three days at a stretch."

"Four bottles of Tanlac completely restored my health and anyone can see at a glance the wonderful change that has taken place in my condition. I have a splendid appetite now and the stomach trouble has entirely disappeared. I can eat just anything I want without ever feeling a sign of indigestion. The best of all, I am never bothered any more with headaches and this was the greatest relief of all. I want to tell everybody what this medicine has done for me."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere. Adv.

HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Kiever.

Vancouver, B.C.—"I am pleased to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me a lot of good. I can now walk about without the aid of a support and feel real strong again. A nurse advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and it is certainly helping me. It seems like Heaven to be relieved after months of pain."

Mrs. H. W. BAKER, 8874 10th Ave. West, Vancouver, B.C.
Albert Co., N.B.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines and they have done me a lot of good. Since then I have been able to do my housework and I have a lot of work to do as we live on a farm. Seeing your advertisement in the papers was what made me think of writing to you. I hope this may help some one else."

Mrs. Wm. B. KIEVER, Upper New Horton, Albert Co., N.B.
The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

ARE YOU A MOTHER?

Mrs. Dalton tells of a Well-known Doctor's Prescription that is safe for Young Mothers to take as a Tonic and Nerve because it contains no harmful ingredients.

London, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription saved my life years ago and for that reason I am most enthusiastic in my recommendation of it to women who are ailing and weak. I was taken with the measles when in an expectant condition; then blood poisoning set in and my family became greatly alarmed. The doctor advised them to give me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I took several bottles of it and was restored to absolutely perfect health. I later took Favorite Prescription as a tonic and nerve and received great benefit from it. As a woman's medicine it is unequalled."—Mrs. Jennie Dalton, 767 York St.

"Oh, there, Jimmy! Won't you say good-bye to me?"

"Why, hello, Mr. Clayton," grinned Stiles as he took the extended hand. "Goin' away?"

"Holidays can't last forever, Jimmy. I'm leaving for home this afternoon—just getting ready to go to the depot when I saw you. Come on in and join me in a glass of beer for good luck."

"Nothin' doin'! The lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine," recited Stiles, rolling his eyes in exaggerated piety. "No, honest, I can't," he protested as the other pulled on his arm. "I'm on an important message for the boss and I got to hustle right back to the office."

"Aw, come on. It won't take a minute. I'm in a haste myself to catch the train; but I want to give you a message for—" Robert Clayton hesitated, coughed in slight embarrassment, and looked helpless. "—for somebody you know up at the church," he pleaded.

Jimmy Stiles nodded in grinning comprehension.

"Well, you know how to pick 'em, Mr. Clayton. I'll say that for you. Anne's a mighty swell girl."

"I've never met a finer one," said Mr. Clayton, looking serious.

"Oh, this town's full of 'em," cried Jimmy generously. "Say, they got a long lemonade they don't make bad in here—sliced orange and a cherry on top. I'll go you one. I guess it won't take a jiff."

"Good!" cried Clayton, leading the way without more ado into the Jessup.

He picked up his raincoat which he had left on a chair near the door, flung over his traveling bag, and carried both with him through the swing doors into the buffet. Here they found a vacant table and Clayton beckoned a waiter and set his grip and coat on the floor between the two chairs. Stiles dropped the tan satchel alongside the raincoat and grinned across at Clayton with evident pleasure. This was the right way for gentlemen to bid each other farewell, and he helped himself from the other's proffered cigarette case with the air of doing this sort of thing every day. Neither of them appeared to pay any attention to the man who entered behind them, sat down at the table next the wall and ordered a glass of beer; patrons were coming and going and the man was just an ordinary citizen entitled to quench his thirst if he so desired.

The two young fellows chatted and laughed over their refreshments for perhaps five or ten minutes. It was Clayton who finally glanced at his watch and jumped to his feet. He picked up raincoat and grip and shook hands. Stiles picked up the tan satchel and out on the street they shook hands once more. Clayton boarded a street car, and with a final wave of good-will Jimmy Stiles continued on his way.

At a convenient distance the private detective followed. He walked into the Brokers' Bank Building just as the bookkeeper pushed the elevator bell. They went up in the same elevator to the fifth floor, where they got out. The detective, sauntering down the corridor, observed Stiles enter the office of Blatchford Ferguson, Barrister, Notary Public, etc.

With a grunt he turned on his heel and descended to the street, where he lighted another storey and returned the way he had come. Arriving finally at the offices of the Alderson Construction Company, he was admitted at once to Alderson's presence and reported that the tan satchel had been delivered at its destination without mishap.

As he finished speaking the telephone rang.

"Here, here, leave him alone!" he commanded sharply as he stepped between them. "What crazy nonsense is this, J. C.?"

No fuss or fury about Hugh Podmore in time of stress. It was Podmore's way to turn calm and cold and calculating in proportion to the extent to which any given crisis disturbed him. The news which had reached him over the phone from the incoherent Alderson had been grave enough; but he was much the coolest of the three most vitally concerned in this mysterious miscarriage of carefully laid plans. The first thing he did was to have Alderson clear the outer office of stenographers and junior clerks. He suggested that Alderson dismiss them for the afternoon, and began at once to question the bookkeeper and the detective who had followed him. The two recitals agreed in every particular.

Podmore at once despatched the detective to the Union Station. Nickleby's car to find Clayton at all costs and arrest him if he would not come otherwise.

ISSUE No. 46—'21.

man, Jimmy. "Take your time," advised Podmore kindly. "No occasion to get scared stiff."

Stiles said he had not known Clayton very long—just a few days, in fact. He had met him for the first time last Sunday at All Saints' Mission, where Jimmy was an usher. On Monday night there had been a social gathering of the younger members of the church in the Sunday School and Clayton had attended that and seemed to enjoy himself. He had made friends with everybody quickly and seemed to fit in so readily that he had been accepted without question by everybody, from the pastor down. He was an American who had come north to visit relatives and was on his way back to Philadelphia. He expected to return shortly, he had told Stiles, and might decide to locate here permanently. He was in the hardware business, somewhere near Philadelphia.

"All right, Jimmy, that will do. Now wait outside till your friend arrives. It all seems straight enough so far as you're concerned," and Podmore closed the door on him with a smile of encouragement; for young Stiles looked as if he needed encouragement. You've scared the wits out of him, C. That won't get us anywhere," he reproved when the three were alone.

"I don't trust anybody—" "Wait," commanded Podmore with raised hand. He stepped over to the table quickly and closely scrutinized the tan satchel. Finally he drew attention to the triangular mark which he had scratched on one end of his pocket-knife. "It's the same O.K. Now, who opened it?"

Ferguson. I gave him the key, as you suggested, and he opened it in front of me. And so help me, that stuff there was all that was in it. The money was gone. I tell you I never felt so much like a fool—" Nickleby broke off with an oath, still smarting under the jibes which the caustic Mr. Ferguson had levelled at him, and beneath which the President of the Interprovincial had writhed in humiliation. "Somebody took that money out on the way over, Podmore."

"Not necessarily, J. C.," said Podmore judiciously. "Wait, now. Think, man. Were you there when Stiles—?"

"Of course I was."

"—when Stiles handed the satchel to Ferguson? Did you see him do it?"

"Why, no, not exactly. I was out in the general office when the kid took it in to Ferguson. What are you driving at?"

"Talking to anybody out there?"

"Yes. I ran into McAllister, of the Recorder, and I was so surprised at seeing the editor of that yellow sheet there—well, he got quizzing me about one or two matters."

"How long after Stiles left you before you joined Ferguson?"

"Oh—five minutes, maybe. Why, what's all that got to do with it?" He regarded the look of triumph upon Podmore's face with some astonishment.

"It's as clear as daylight to me, J. C. In that five minutes almost anything might have happened. Many of the world's greatest events have happened in less than that. Hasn't it occurred to you that the package of money might be removed from the satchel and the paper substituted in Ferguson's office? The lock might have been sprung, you know."

Nickleby stared, his beady eyes narrowed in a frown of thought. Then he slapped the table with his open palm.

"By—!" he ejaculated.

"I'm inclined to fancy the whole thing is a cleverly arranged scare which those fellows have chosen to throw into us in order to protect themselves," went on Mr. Podmore, nodding with satisfaction at his own logic. "You can understand that, surely. If I am guessing correctly, they have succeeded in providing a fine denial of the fact that there ever was such a thing as our contribution to the Campaign Fund."

"I told you!" cried Alderson excitedly. "The Hon. Milt said he wouldn't have anything to do with it. He said we'd contribute at our own risk, didn't he?"

Nickleby rounded on him.

"Shut up, you jackass!" he ordered angrily.

Podmore's eyebrows arched a trifle at this admission. Already he had surmised something of the kind. The Honorable Milt was nobody's fool, he knew. For the matter of that, neither was Hugh Podmore.

"They'll be expecting us to keep our mouths shut and let things take their course," he continued, choosing to ignore the interruption. "The money's not lost, Alderson. They'll keep on swearing up and down that they haven't got it, of course; but that's just the way in which these things are handled. It's my opinion that the sacrifice of that million bags of peanuts up the elephant's trunk will ensure a good performance when the circus starts."

Crocodile Tears.

Why do we speak of "shedding crocodile tears"—the expression referring to hypocritical grief?

Only within recent years have modern naturalists noted the fact (evidently observed by the ancients) that the crocodile really does shed tears. The huge saurian, lying half asleep on a mud bank, may be, thinking sad thoughts, but the chances are that its eyes are merely watering.

An Alphabetical Retort.

After several complaints had been made to him, the vicar of a certain church, came to an opinion that his old sexton was neglecting certain duties.

The sexton, who was not wanting in wit, strenuously denied the charge, and said that he was "not goin' to stand no meddlin' with his affairs."

"But John," argued the vicar, "it behooves everybody to mind his 'p's' and 'q's'."

"Everybody except me," retorted the old man, refusing to be cornered. "I've enough to do to mind my keys and pews."

THREAT OF COAL MINERS' STRIKE HANGS OVER THE UNITED STATES

Indiana Miners Totalling 25,000 Have Already Quit Work
—General Strike Would Involve 350,000 Workmen—Coal Shortage Not Imminent as Large Supplies Are on Hand.

A despatch from Chicago says:—A strike of 350,000 coal miners of the principal bituminous producing fields of the country will follow enforcement of Judge Anderson's injunction against the "check-off" system, according to union officials. Already 25,000 miners have quit work in Indiana.

Frank Farrington, head of the Illinois miners, wired his chiefs that while a stoppage of the "check-off" system would be a violation of contract, he could not order a strike until it had actually occurred. It was understood he had received his instructions from headquarters in Indianapolis.

The Illinois miners will not be paid for two weeks, and until that time they will not know what action has been taken by the Illinois operators on Judge Anderson's injunction.

Illinois miners were reported ready to strike and 400 quit work in the Central Iowa district. They were the first to go out in this state. It was not expected there would be a general walkout before next pay day.

Approximately 350,000 miners would be idle if a general strike is called. The mines of Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Michigan, Missouri, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, Wyoming, Iowa, and Montana would be tied up. The "check-off" system prevails in these states as well as Indiana where the miners have already gone out.

Under the "check-off" system the mine operators deduct union dues from the men's pay and turn it over to the union treasurer. Judge Anderson held money raised in this way was being used to prolong the West Virginia mine war.

Danger of a coal shortage was not regarded as serious by Chicago mine operators and coal dealers. It was estimated Chicago had a supply sufficient for two months. Supplies of both bituminous and anthracite were reported above normal, due to the industrial depression. Similar conditions, it was said, exist throughout the country.

EAST NEWFOUNDLAND SUFFERS FROM GALE

Half a Million Dollars' Damage Done to Roads and Property.

A despatch from St. John's, Nfld., says:—The northeast gale which has swept this section of Newfoundland since Friday evening has abated. Half a million dollars' damage has been done to roads and public property, it is estimated, in addition to the loss of private property swept away or destroyed. Beyond one death in St. John's from electrocution, no toll of life from the storm is known, but it is feared that loss of life was inevitable at sea.

No word has yet been heard from the small schooner which was blown out to sea with four men on board near Cape Hayden.

One story from Conception Bay tells of 12 men being forced to spend three days without food, marooned on Kelly's Island, near Bell Island, where they were trapped by the sudden rising of wind and sea. A steamer rescued them.

Sir Richard Squires, Prime Minister, has returned from a 250-mile tour to Trinity Bay. A pathway through big banks of snow, practically unknown previously at this time of year, had to be shovelled to allow the Premier's car to pass.

Baby Dead Between Rungs of Cot

A despatch from Montreal says:—Left sleeping in its cot while its mother went out for a few minutes to a grocery store, the eight-month-old baby of Bruno Brunelle, of 854a Dorchester street east, was found dead on her return, hanging by the neck from between the rungs of the cot.

The chief difference between the human hand and that of the higher apes lies in the thumb, which is always shorter in the ape.

Admiral Beatty Honored at Great Lakes Station

A despatch from Chicago says:—"The world's greatest living naval commander," was the honor conferred upon Admiral Earl Beatty, First Sea Lord of the British Admiralty and hero of the Battle of Jutland, by the officers and men of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

The Admiral, his uniform decorated with yards of gold cord and rows of service ribbons, his service cap tipped saucily over one eye, and his famous smile much in evidence, had visited the training station on a tour of inspection. He had viewed the quarters of the men, had met all the officers, had reviewed the parade and was just preparing to leave when Captain Daniel W. Wurtsbaugh, Commandant at the station, proposed three cheers for the "world's greatest living naval commander."

Karl Took Precautions in Quitting Refuge

A despatch from Vienna says:—An interesting incident happened at Vienna before Karl's departure. The King called for the Beate officers guarding him and asked them for a certificate confirming that he had been delivered into the keeping of the great powers. Apparently Karl feared he might be captured during the journey by Little Entente troops. He was granted his request.

Lady Laurier, widow of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, former Premier of Canada, died at her Ottawa home last week.

H.R.H. Prince Eric of Denmark and Prince Rene de Bourbon Parma have sailed for Canada.

CARL AND ZITA ON BOARD BRITISH MONITOR SAILING DOWN THE DANUBE

A despatch from Vienna says:—Carl and Zita are aboard the British river monitor, Glow Worm, of the Danube flotilla, steaming slowly down that romantic river which is famous in song and dance, towards a, to them, as yet unknown St. Helena.

With them departs also what is probably the last hope that any Hapsburg may have entertained of mounting the Hungarian throne.

In making his comic opera, yet tragic dash for the throne, Carl, in destroying all his own chances for again setting the thousand-year-old Holy St. Stephen Crown on his head, has also had some revenge—he has dethroned all the other Hapsburg aspirants.

In archducal circles the adventure of Carl is spoken of in great bitterness and characterized as "madcap folly." The chief blame is put upon former Empress Zita. Even after the fiasco there was still hope in those circles that prompt abdication by Carl might save the chances for some other member of the Hapsburg dynasty to mount the throne. Some, however, were extremely skeptical, one of the archdukes remarking to the correspondent:

MALTESE HOUSE OPENED BY PRINCE

On His Way to India—New Type of Government at Malta.

A despatch from Malta says:—The Prince of Wales, on his way to India on the battle cruiser Renown, opened the new Maltese Parliament. The event marks the introduction of a new type of Government in Malta, based upon the principle of responsible self-government, subject to definite limitations laid down in the interests of imperial security.

The main principle is the establishment of two concurrent Governmental systems, one for local affairs under the complete legislative and administrative control of the Maltese people, and another for matters of imperial concern, taking orders from the Imperial Government.

Wheat Price Lowest in Six Years

A despatch from Chicago says:—What long ago used to be considered normalcy was reached on Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade—wheat at $1 a bushel. The December delivery fell to that price, the lowest since 1915.

Later it fell to 99 cents, where it closed.

On the Canadian market wheat also was weak, the final quotation on the December option at Winnipeg being 99½ cents. This is the lowest price reached this year and, according to local authorities, the lowest in six years.

Wheat congestion of a greater or less extent is reported all the way up from the seaboard to the head of the Lakes, and until purchases by the importing countries of Europe permit the movement of some of these supplies it appears as though there can be little relief.

The Western farmer is hard hit by the drop in prices, which cannot net him much more than 70 cents per bushel at the best.

China's Finances at Washington Conference

A despatch from Washington says:—The State Department recently called the attention of the Chinese Government to the possible serious effect upon its credit which might follow default of the $5,500,000 loan made to it by the Continental Trust & Savings Company of Chicago. The Chinese Government decision to default on the Chicago loan defaulted also several loans advanced by Japanese institutions during the world war and, so far as known here, the Japanese Government has taken no action to satisfy claims of the Japanese creditors of China.

The general financial demoralization of the debtor country, it is assumed, will be discussed in the Washington Conference, when the Chinese problems are presented for discussion.

Mrs. McCudden, who on behalf of the war mothers of Britain will lay a wreath—their wreath—upon the grave of the unknown American soldier on Armistice Day, has made a tremendous sacrifice to war. She gave three sons and her husband that freedom might live.

SPIRIT OF LEAGUE PRESENT AT ARMS CONFERENCE IN U.S. CAPITAL

A despatch from Paris says:—The idea that the League of Nations will play no part in the Washington Conference is a fallacy. It may not have an official delegation present at the deliberations, and it may not figure on the program, but it will be there just the same.

The ghost of the League they said they had killed will go to Washington to haunt the Republican chiefs of the American Government. But this ghost will not be an ordinary ghost. It will be the spirit of something which, if it does not exist in the minds of the Harding Administration, lives in the minds of those who will sit in majority about the Washington council table.

Can the dignified Mr. Balfour of England, whose enthusiasm for the League and its work stirred the representatives of the 48 nations at Geneva in September, sit down in November and forget it exists? Is the question asked here. Can the eloquent M. Viviani of France, who four weeks ago pictured the League as the greatest hope of international fraternity, shut it from his conscience two weeks from now? Can the earnest Signor Schanzer of Italy change in a month from the ardent League worker he has been for two years? Will the taciturn Hyashi of Japan take back the honeyed words of hope he spread upon the minutes of Geneva? Will the youthful and efficient Wellington Koo of China recant his praise of the League when he opened the second assembly, or will Jonkheer van Karnebeck of Holland be brought to believe at Washington that for five weeks at Geneva he presided over a gathering of the dead?

The same men who represent their Governments at Geneva are going to Washington, since they are the best fitted men, both because they are students of international co-operation, and partially, at least, because their experience in League work has bettered them for the role.

And so, no matter where it comes technically in the proceedings, the question of the entry of the United States into the League will be automatically posed at all stages of the Washington Conference.

Richardson will lay a wreath of Maple Leaves on the grave of the United States unknown hero on Armistice Day.

Women of Canada

"I ask from all the people of Canada an earnest review of the real issue before Canada to-day. I ask from men and women a calm, thoughtful consideration of serious public questions; and, so far as I am concerned myself, I ask not favors but fairness."—ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

WOMEN OF CANADA, the coming General Election will be one of the most momentous in Canadian history, and Arthur Meighen asks YOU to give the issue fair, unbiased consideration.

Women and men alike are called upon to decide whether political, industrial and economic stability is to be replaced by class rule, political and industrial chaos and possible economic bankruptcy.

The facts are clear, and every Canadian woman will do her own thinking. She will not be misled by others. She will not blindly follow family political precedent, neither will she be carried away by the false theories or empty "isms" of the theorists and extremists. Every woman will arrive at a personal decision by the application of practical common sense.

The great issue is the Tariff and here are briefly the facts.

The present Canadian Tariff, so far as it affects the necessities of life, is a very moderate one. It is simply a tariff maintained to keep Canadian factories in Canada, employing a steadily increasing volume of Canadian labor and developing Canadian resources.

Meighen stands firm for the continuance of a reasonable tariff. It is now even more imperative than in the past. All other important countries are retaining or increasing their tariffs in order that they may hold their home markets for their own people.

Under Crerar's Free Trade policy Canada would be swamped with foreign goods, principally from the United States, Canadian industry would be ruined, thousands of men and women would be out of work with all the hardships to themselves and their children that must result. The farmer's great home market would be seriously affected, taxes would be increased, and Canadian working men would have to go to the United States for employment.

While King's Tariff policy is wobbly it nevertheless tends toward the destruction of the Tariff and would bring with it practically the same results.

MEIGHEN'S POLICY EVERYBODY KNOWS. It is the only means whereby confidence may be maintained and employment given to all classes of the people.

The foregoing is a plain statement of logical conclusions arrived at from the facts. Think the matter over carefully "without favor but with fairness".

Make your own decision, stand by it unmoved and be sure to exercise your vote.
